In case the disbursing officer or agent by whom such lost, destroyed, or stolen original check was issued is dead or no longer in the service of the United States it shall be the duty of the proper accounting officer, under such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, to state an account in favor of the owner of such original check for the amount thereof and to charge such amount to the account of such officer or agent: Provided, That in case a check drawn by any officer or agent of the Post-Office Department is lost, stolen, or destroyed a duplicate thereof may be issued under regulations prescribed by the Postmaster-General, as set forth in section 3646."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a reason.]

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

BRIDGE ACROSS MISSOURI RIVER.

Mr. BOOHER. Mr. Speaker, I desire to ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill H. R. 26606.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the bill.
Mr. ADAMSON. Mr. Speaker, pending the request of the gentleman from Missouri, I would ask unanimous consent for a matter connected with that bill.

The SPEAKER. Pending the request, the gentleman from Georgia asks unanimous consent for a matter connected with the bill.

Mr. ADAMSON. By direction of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce I made that report, and by a clerical error an amendment ordered by the committee is omitted, and I wish to substitute a correct report.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Georgia desires to correct a report made by the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, in which there is a clerical error, to make it conform to the order of the committee. Is there objection? [After a The Chair hears none. The Clerk will report the bill. pause.] The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 26606) to authorize the Lewis Bridge Company to con-struct a bridge across the Missouri River.

struct a bridge across the Missouri River.

Be it enacted, etc., That the Lewis Bridge Company, a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Missouri, its successors and assigns, be, and they are hereby, authorized to construct, maintain, and operate a railroad, wagon, and foot-passenger bridge and approaches thereto across the Missouri River at a point on the east side of said river in section 8, township 50 north, range 33 west, in Platte County, Mo., to a point on the west side of said river in section 27, township 10 south, range 25 east, in Wyandotte County, in the State of Kansas, in accordance with the provisions of the act entitled "An act to regulate the construction of bridges over navigable waters," approved March 23, 1906.

SEC. 2. That the right to alter, amend, or repeal this act is hereby expressly reserved.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] Chair hears none. The Clerk will report the amendment. [After a pause.]

The Clerk read as follows:

In line 6, after the word "a," strike out the words "railroad, wagon, and foot-passenger."

The SPEAKER. The question is on agreeing to the amendment.

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to. The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. Booher, a motion to reconsider the vote upon which the bill was passed was laid on the table.

TOKYO EXPOSITION.

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to discharge the Committee of the Whole House from further consideration of the bill S. 7992, and that the same may be considered in the House.

The SPEAKER. The Clerk will report the bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

The Clerk read as follows:

An act (8. 7992) to amend an act entitled "An act to provide for participation by the United States in an international exposition to be held at Tokyo, Japan, in 1912," approved May 22, 1908.

Be it enacted, etc., That an act entitled "An act to provide for participation by the United States in an international exposition to be held at Tokyo, Japan, in 1912," approved May 22, 1908, be, and the same is hereby, amended so that after January 1, 1909, one of the commissioners-general, who now receives $8,000 per annum, appointed under said act shall receive as compensation for his services the sum of $1,000 per annum until the end of the year 1914, which amount shall also include his expenses, and thereafter the sum of $8,000 per annum until the end of the year 1917, and the other two commissioners-general shall receive no compensation for their services until the end of the year 1914, and thereafter shall receive $5,000 each per annum until the end of the year 1917; and so that the secretary and other employees shall receive no compensation for their services until the end of the year 1914, and thereafter the secretary shall receive $5,000 per annum until the end of the year 1917, and that no expenses shall be incurred by the commission or clerical or other assistants employed prior to January 1, 1915.

Also the following committee amendment:

Also the following committee amendment:

Amend by striking out all after the word "after," in line 7, and substituting the following:

"February 1, 1909, the three commissioners-general appointed under said act shall receive no compensation for their services until the end of the year 1914, and thereafter one of the said commissioners-general, who now receives $8,000 per annum, shall receive $8,000 per annum from January 1, 1915, until the end of the year 1917, and the other two commissioners-general shall receive $5,000 each per annum from January 1, 1915, until the end of the year 1917; and so that the secretary and the other employees shall receive no compensation for their services from February 1, 1909, until the end of the year 1914, and the secretary shall receive $5,000 per annum from January 1, 1915, until the end of the year 1917; and so that after February 1, 1909, no expenses in excess of $1,000 per annum shall be incurred by the commission prior to January 1, 1915."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object-The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Michigan [Mr. DENBY] yield to the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE]?

Mr. DENBY. I do. Mr. PAYNE. As I understand the present law, the salaries

Mr. FATNE. As I understand the present any for these commissioners would commence now?

Mr. DENBY. Would commence January 1, 1909.

Mr. PAYNE. And unless this law is passed postponing it, or some similar law, they would continue to receive the salaries until the exposition was held in 1915?

Mr. DENBY. Certainly, they would, in case they were con-

Mr. DENSI: Certainly, they would, in case they were confirmed by the Senate in their offices.

Mr. PAYNE. They have not yet been confirmed? Then the Treasury has not been mulcted anything for this January? Why would it not be a good idea, seeing that this exposition is postponed for five years, to postpone the whole business and repeal the act, and come in later and provide for it, or provide for the appointment of commissioners later? Some people may grow up in the business in the next five years and therefore would be overlooked now in making the appointments.

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Speaker, it is regarded by the State Department as inadvisable to discontinue this commission. It is also regarded by the State Department and the President as inadvisable to change the personnel of the commission, because these three gentlemen, acting under instructions from the State Department, have been to Tokyo, are already thoroughly acquainted with the work of the commission, and have accomplished a very great service.

Mr. PAYNE. They have already commenced on the performance of their duties?

Mr. DENBY. They have been to Tokyo, and have saved the United States Government $200,000, at least, by securing from the Japanese Government-

Mr. PAYNE. I think the gentleman's bill is fatal, then, that it does not make an appropriation of half a million dollars; in view of the saving of $200,000, because that would be in accordance with the general precedent.

Mr. DENBY. The commission was paid out of an appropriation of $50,000 made in the original bill, and the Japanese commission is coming to this country, and they must receive some attention.

Mr. PAYNE. This $50,000 has already been absorbed?
Mr. DENBY. Twenty thousand dollars of that is already contracted for under the original bill.

Mr. PAYNE. To pay these gentlemen's expenses and per diem?

Mr. DENBY. To pay their expenses and their salaries. They were an interim appointment.

Mr. PAYNE. Has that been paid up to this time out of the $20,000?

Mr. DENBY. It has been paid-the total expenses of the commission.

Mr. PAYNE. Does not the gentleman think, then, in view of that, that we ought to try to save the other $30,000 and repeal that part of it?

Mr. DENBY. You can not save this; it is already spentsome $20,000.

Mr. PAYNE. I understand the gentleman to say that the original bill appropriated $50,000, and that only $20,000 has been paid out?

Mr. DENBY. The saving will occur, because we limit the expenditure to $1,000 a year until the year 1915.

Mr. PAYNE. Then, there is a limit? Mr. DENBY. There is a limit in this bill-not to exceed $1,000. per annum.

Mr. PAYNE. I did not observe the limit.

Mr. DENBY. It is not to be salaries, but merely expenses; namely, cable charges and other matters of that character.

Mr. PAYNE. I notice some of these gentlemen will serve two or three years. Was that in accordance with the provisions of the original bill?

Mr. DENBY. Yes. The original bill provided for one commissioner for four years, at $8,000, and two commissioners—
Mr. PAYNE. Do you still leave that to run for four years?
Mr. DENBY. That commissioner will only serve three years at $8,000. The bill will effect a saving-

Mr. PAYNE. There is a saving of $8,000 on that, How much for the other two?

Mr. DENBY. The other two were to receive $2,000 each for one year and $3,000 each for three years; and under the proposed amendment they will receive $5,000 for three years only.

A net saving of $4,000 per year is effected there.
Mr. PAYNE. That is an increase of salary.
Mr. DENBY. No; it is the same salary ex Mr. DENBY. No; it is the same salary exactly provided. There is no change in the personnel or salary or method of procedure on the commission. It merely keeps the commission alive, because it is regarded as a commission of a diplomatic nature, that it is exceedingly advisable, and from a practical standpoint it is absolutely essential that it be continued.

Mr. PAYNE. If this will prevent this salary going on, I am much inclined not to object to the bill; but I think it would be much better to postpone the whole business until we get somewhere in the vicinity of the time for holding this exposition, and see by that time whether we can afford any of these frills. If we keep on at the same rate with these expenditures, by the time this exposition is held we will be borrowing money to pay the expenses of the Government. I would like to have that fact brought before the attention of Congress as time passes. I would be much better satisfied to see the law repealed, so that the whole thing can come up when necessary, somewhere about the year 1914. Congress will be here, and the people will know what is being done with the people's money, and how much we are running behind, and whether we are running in debt.

Mr. DENBY. I do not think the commission would be any expense between now and 1915, except the $1,000 per annum, which is absolutely essential. The Japanese commission is traveling the world through, and there are continual expenses for cables, etc. At any time the United States Government may repeal the law. If the commissioners are to be wiped out any time between now and the year 1915, Congress may repeal the law at any time the Treasury demands that course; but until that is done we must keep alive some sort of representation in order to be properly represented at Tokyo in 1917.

Mr. MANN. Will the gentleman yield to me for a question?

Mr. DENBY. I yield to the gentleman from Illinois.

Mr. MANN. The gentleman in his report refers to the cost under the original bill. They have stricken out practically all the bill and put in a substitute. I suppose the gentleman for the property of the p the bill and put in a substitute. I suppose the gentleman refers to the original law?

Mr. DENBY. I refer to the original law.
Mr. MANN. Is there authority anywhere which will require Congress against its will to appropriate money for this commission while doing no work?

Mr. DENBY. There is nothing in the act that will require any appropriation except to authorize the $1,000 per annum

Mr. MANN. Does the gentleman think the Executive would permit these commissioners to draw salaries for the ensuing years, to 1915, with nothing to do?

Mr. DENBY. Not only would he not permit it, but it is expressly forbidden by the language of the bill.

Mr. MANN. I am not talking about the language of this bill; but as the law is it enables the Executive—
Mr. DENBY. If Congress authorized the Executive to continue the commission, he would be required to do so.

Mr. PAYNE. Suppose we do not pass this law, and these gentlemen are confirmed, and they perform some sort of service. Il Congress refused to appropriate for their salaries, they could bring a claim before the Court of Claims. What defense would the Government of the United States have?

It would have no defense, for before the occa-Mr. MANN. sion suggested by the gentleman had been completed the law would have been repealed. Now, will the gentleman inform us why we should now compel the next administration to accept commissioners for five or six years from now, appointed by the present administration, with nothing to do for the next four

Mr. DENBY. There is something to do, and the commission has consented to do what there shall be to do during that time.

Mr. MANN. Well, there is not very much to do, because you only provide a thousand dollars a year to do it with.

Mr. DENBY. I may say to the gentleman that, of course, if this commission is not acceptable to the next administration, there is no possible question that the next administration will have full power to dispose of this commission and substitute other commissioners at its will.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Where is the authority to do that?

Mr. MANN. What is the authority which enables the incoming administration to do that?

Mr. DENBY. It can be done by a request for their resignations and the substituting of other appointees.

Mr. MANN. Then, it occurs to me that the proper time to request the resignation of these commissioners, who have not a thing on earth to do for the next four years, is right now.

Mr. DENBY. Mr. Speaker, is it wise to accept the resignation or to demand the resignation or to legislate out of office the only body that has any special knowledge concerning this subject, when they are willing to serve freely and without pay and to do whatever is required of them, without compensation, for six years? They have been to Tokyo, they know the ground, they have entered into negotiations with the Japanese Government and have been very successful, and they have established that intimate personal relationship which, it seems to me, it is very desirable to retain.

Mr. MANN. No doubt the next President will take that into consideration and will perhaps reappoint these gentlemen who have this intimate knowledge. He will have that power. It seems to me this bill is only a plan—not on the part of the gentleman—to continue in office gentlemen now appointed, where the appointment ought to be left free to the incoming administration, to be made at the proper time.

Mr. DENBY. I yield three minutes to the gentleman from

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. Before the gentleman

Mr. MANN. The request for unanimous consent has not yet been agreed to.

The SPEAKER. No; the request has not been agreed to.

Mr. DALZELL. I want to ask the gentleman a question. Mr. DENBY. I yield first to the gentleman from West Virginia [Mr. GAINES].

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. I want to ask the gentle-man from Michigan whether this bill as drawn does not require the payment of the salary to a particular person?

Mr. DENBY. It does require the payment of such salaries as are provided for to a particular person, because that person, like all other persons connected with the commission, is now in

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. But suppose the person designated to receive the $8,000 salary should be found in the future not to be satisfactory. Is he not entitled, under the wording of this bill, to receive the salary?

Mr. DENBY. No; I do not think there is any question as to

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. If the gentleman will permit me, it seems to me, upon an examination of this language just at this moment, that the Executive would not be permitted to remove the commissioner; or, at least, if he did, the commissioner would still be entitled to the $8,000 provided for here. The language is:

And thereafter one of the said commissioners-general who now receive $8,000 per annum shall receive $8,000 per annum from January 1, 1915, until the end of the year 1917.

Mr. DENBY. Does the gentleman seriously think that the Government could be compelled to continue paying $8,000 to a man not in office under the terms of this act?

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. If the gentleman will permit me to answer his question, I do think that if we appropriate money to a particular person, either by name or designation, he can compel the payment of that money, especially since this seems to crowd the compensation for his services all into the last year.

I will say to the gentleman from West Virginia and the House that I have no objection to amending by striking out the words "who now receive $8,000 per annum" in order that there shall be no designation. There is only one in the bill, and if it seems wise to the House not to designate the man, I have no objection to such an amendment.

Mr. GAINES of West Virginia. I do not know that I could now suggest an amendment, nor do I know that the one suggested by the gentleman from Michigan would accomplish the purpose.

Mr. DENBY. There is but one designation in the bill, which is the one in question.

Mr. DALZELL. I would like to ask the gentleman a ques-

Mr. DENBY. I will yield to the gentleman from Pennsylvania.

Mr. DALZELL. The report says that the bill as amended by the Senate continues the commission as at present constituted. My question is, What will become of the commission if this bill is not passed? Will the commission cease to exist?

Mr. DENBY. The Senate will fail to confirm the commissioners, and the commission will cease to exist.

Mr. DALZELL. Then, I hope the bill will not be passed.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I think the bill is one that ought to be considered in Committee of the Whole House, and I shall have to object to the gentleman's request in the end.

Mr. DENBY. In view of the fact that there is apparent opposition to unanimous consent, I ask now unanimous consent to fix a definite time next week for the consideration of the bill. We are nearing the end of the month of January, and it ought to be passed.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. I would suggest that the gentleman will have to modify that request, so as not to interfere with appropriation bills.

Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I shall object to any request that would deprive the Committee on Rules of their special function. [Laughter.] Mr. DENBY. Does the g

Mr. DENBY. Does the gentleman object to my request? Mr. FITZGERALD. This bill can come up under the rules.

IMPORTATION OF OPIUM.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to discharge the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union from further consideration of the bill (H. R. 24863) to prohibit the importation and use of opium for other than medicinal purposes, and ask that the same may be considered at the present time.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois asks unanion the state of the Union from further consideration of the bill to which he refers, and consider the same in the House at this The Clerk will read the bill.

The Clerk read as follows:

A bill (H. R. 24863) to prohibit the importation and use of opium for other than medicinal purposes.

Be it enacted, etc., That after the 1st day of April, 1909, it shall be unlawful to import into the United States opium in any form or any preparation or derivative thereof: Provided, That opium and preparations and derivatives thereof other than smoking opium or opium prepared for smoking may be imported for medicinal purposes only under regulations which the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized to establish regulations which the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized to establish.

Sec. 2. That if any person shall fraudulently or knowingly import or bring into the United States, or assist in so doing, any opium or any preparation or derivative thereof contrary to law or shall receive, conceal, buy, sell, or in any manner facilitate the transportation, concealment, or sale of such opium or preparation or derivative thereof after importation, knowing the same to have been imported contrary to law, such opium or preparation or derivative thereof shall be forfeited and shall be destroyed, and the offender shall be fined in any sum not exceeding $5,000 nor less than $50, or be imprisoned for any time not exceeding two years, or both. Whenever on trial for a violation of this section the defendant is shown to have or to have had possession of such opium or preparation or derivative thereof, such possession shall be deemed evidence sufficient to authorize conviction unless the defendant shall explain the possession to the satisfaction of the jury.

The amendment recommended by the committee was read, as follows:

Strike out the words "and use" in the title, so that the title will read: "To prohibit the importation of opium for other than medicinal purposes."

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?
Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Reserving the right to object-Mr. PAYNE. I want to reserve the right to object, too.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. The gentleman from New York may go ahead.

Mr. PAYNE. Mr. Speaker, I want to ask a question, or make a short statement. Although this bill belongs to the Committee on Ways and Means, I am not disposed to object to it for the reason that it did not go to that committee, and if the bill commended itself to me or to the majority of the members of the committee I should not object to it. When it was first reported it contained a provision that excluded smoking opium, or opium prepared for smoking, from the United States. It also contained the further clause that would enable opium for all other purposes to come into the United States free of duty. It also contained a clause providing that the law was to be carried out by regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

When I first saw the bill I raised two objections from a hasty reading of it. In the first place, it put all opium on the free list, from which we get a revenue of about one and a half million dollars. In the second place, it took this one article out of the jurisdiction of the Treasury Department and lodged it in the Agricultural Department to provide rules and regulations. The gentleman has stricken out that part of the bill, and as it is now presented it provides for the prohibition of the importation of opium prepared for smoking into the United States. If I thought, Mr. Speaker, that this bill would prevent the use of a pipe full of opium in the United States, I would still be disposed to give it consideration.

But it will not prevent the use of it. Opium will still come in to be used for other purposes, and there is nothing in the bill, there can be nothing in any effective law passed by Congress, to prevent any person in the United States preparing opium for smoking or using it as smoking material from the opium brought in for other purposes. It can not be done. We would have practically the same consumption of opium for smoking as we have now.

Opium for smoking purposes produces a revenue of over $900,000 a year. That would cut us off from a million dollars of revenue, and we should gain nothing by the operation of the

Now, I know that it is urged that the State Department desires that this bill pass, because there is to be a convention in Hongkong, about the 1st of February, of the powers, who are going to see if they can not stop the use of opium in the Chinese Empire, and this is to be a sort of inducement for the convention to get together, a sort of certificate of good faith on the part of the people in the United States that they do not propose to have opium coming in here prepared for smoking purposes.

I do not believe that a bill of this kind, having no effect upon the use of opium for smoking purposes in the United States, would fool anybody in that international convention. I do not believe that it would have any effect at all on the use of opium here, or upon that convocation when it assembles. I am not willing to give up a revenue of $75,000 a month when it will do no good.

Mr. MANN. Mr. Speaker, if it is the intention of the gentle-man from New York to object in the end, I object to his making a long speech. He has already exceeded the courtesy that was extended to him.

Mr. PAYNE. I shall object to the bill in the end. If the gentleman wants to make a statement, I am willing.

Mr. MANN. I did not expect the gentleman to make a long

Mr. MANN. I did not expect the gentleman to make a long speech on the bill and then in the end object to it.

Mr. PAYNE. I object, Mr. Speaker. If the gentleman wants to make a statement, however, I will withhold my objection.

Mr. MANN. O, Mr. Speaker, I do not believe in batting the air like the gentleman from New York [Mr. PAYNE]. I do not want to make a statement.

The SPEAKER. Objection is heard.

ISSUING DUPLICATE GOLD CERTIFICATES.

Mr. STERLING. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent for the present consideration of the bill (H. R. 3884) to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to issue duplicate gold certificates in lieu of ones lost or destroyed, which I send to the desk and ask to have read.

The Clerk read as follows:

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That whenever any United States gold certificate, made payable to order, issued by the Treasurer of the United States or any assistant treasurer thereof, under the act of March 14, 1900, shall have been lost and shall have been specially indorsed to order or shall have been indorsed, or when any such certificate shall have been destroyed, the Secretary of the Treasury shall be, and he is hereby, authorized, in his discretion and on such conditions as he shall impose, upon satisfactory proof of such loss or destruction, to issue to the holder of such certificate a duplicate thereof: Provided, That the said holder shall first file in the Treasury a bond with good and sufficient sureties, to be approved by the Secretary of the Treasury, in double the amount of such certificate lost or destroyed, conditioned to indemnify and save harmiess the United States from any claim or loss on account of such lost or destroyed certificate.

With the following amendment:

With the following amendment:

Strike out, beginning with the word "and," in line 6, down to and including the word "indorse," in line 8.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection?

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, reserving the right to object, I would ask if there is any limit of time when this thing can be done.

Mr. STERLING. When the duplicate may be issued?

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Yes; or how long this bond would

Mr. STERLING. There is no limit in the bill as to the time when it may be done.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. How long does this bond run?

Mr. STERLING. The bill does not fix any time which the bond shall run. No doubt, however, it would run indefinitely to secure the Government.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Is there any length of time within which this transaction is to take place? Suppose one of these gold certificates were lost to-day-

Mr. MANN. It applies only to registered certificates, not to ones that we carry around.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Is there any limit to the length of time after it purports to be lost within which this transaction has to take place?

Mr. STERLING. There is not, and I think there should not be any limit of time. I see no reason why there should be any limit.

Mr. MANN. It is just like a bond.

Mr. CLARK of Missouri. Mr. Speaker, I desire to repeat a remark, if the House will pardon me, which I made here two or three weeks ago. Hereafter I intend to object to every bill called up by unanimous consent, unless the gentleman who has it in charge brings me a copy, of it a long enough time to look over before it is brought up, and I think that is not unreasonable. In this case I will not object.

Mr. MANN. Has this bill been submitted to the Treasury

Mr. STERLING. Yes.

Mr. MANN. It is a wonder the gentleman would not incorporate in his report a letter from the Treasury Department.

Mr. STERLING. I have not got any letter. I talked to the Secretary of the Treasury personally about it, and I will say in regard to the history of the bill that the bill was introduced three years ago. It was prepared by the Treasury Department. At that time it passed the House with an amendment, by inserting the words stricken out in this amendment. It did not pass the Senate. It was introduced again a year ago in the same form in which it passed the House. I then again conferred with the Secretary of the Treasury, and he recommended that those words which the Judiciary Committee had put in be stricken out; so they were stricken out, and the bill reported unanimously by the Judiciary Committee.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none. The question is on agreeing to the amendment

The question was taken, and the amendment was agreed to. The bill as amended was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, read the third time, and passed.

TRANSFERRING LIGHT-HOUSE RESERVATION, FORT HOWARD, MD.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent that the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union be discharged from the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 17991) providing for the transfer of light-house reservation at Fort Howard, Md., which I send to the desk and ask to have read, and that the same be considered in the House at this

The Clerk read as follows:

The Clerk read as follows:

Be it enacted, etc., That the Secretary of Commerce and Labor is hereby authorized and directed to transfer to the War Department for the purposes of the public defense the present light-house reservation adjoining the military reservation of Fort Howard, at North Point, in Baltimore County, Md., in exchange for a suitable and sufficient portion of said military reservation to be agreed upon between the said Secretary of Commerce and Labor and the Secretary of War; which said portion of the military reservation, together with the necessary right of way to permit of access to the same, the Secretary of War is hereby authorized and directed to transfer to the Department of Commerce and Labor for light-house purposes; and the Secretary of War is further authorized and directed to remove the light-keeper's dwelling and appurtenant buildings from their present location and to place and establish them complete and ready for use on the new site to be selected therefor, as herein provided, and to erect new structures in lieu of those which it may be found impracticable to remove, in accordance with plans and details to be mutually agreed upon by the said Secretaries; the cost thereof, not exceeding $4,000, to be defrayed from funds appropriated for barracks and quarters for the artillery.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The

The SPEAKER. Is there objection? [After a pause.] The Chair hears none. The question is on the engrossment and third reading of the bill.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

On motion of Mr. Hull of Iowa, a motion to reconsider the last vote was laid on the table.

Mr. OLCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask unanimous consent to return to the bill H. R. 26072. I had expected during the consideration of that bill to offer an amendment to increase the pension to Julia B. Coghlan from $50 to $100. I was listening as intently as I possibly could, and believed the bill that was being read was one of the omnibus bills reported from the Committee on Invalid Pensions and not from the Committee on Pensions. I am desirous of offering an amendment to increase the pension granted to the widow of Admiral Coghlan from $50 to $100 a month, and I would like to be heard on that. The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman will suspend until the bill before the House is disposed of, which is not the bill to which he is addressing his remarks.

Without objection, the bill reported by the Clerk will be considered.

Mr. SIMS. What is the bill?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. It is another bill. This is not the bill to which the gentleman from New York [Mr. Olcott] referred.

Mr. SIMS. It is not the bill the gentleman just referred to? The SPEAKER pro tempore. No.

The bill (H. R. 26746) was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read the third time, and passed.

JULIA B. COGHLAN.

Mr. OLCOTT. Now, Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask unanimous consent to return to the bill H. R. 26072, reported from the Committee on Pensions. As I said, I was listening as intently as I could, and I believed that the bill reported by the chairman of the Committee on Invalid Pensions was being read. I would like very much to receive unanimous consent to go back to this bill and offer my amendment and discuss the matter. Mr. MANN. I think the gentleman had better make a motion to reconsider.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. Is there objection?
Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I shall have to object.
Mr. OLCOTT. Then, Mr. Speaker, I would like to move to reconsider the bill H. R. 26072.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from New York moves to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed and in which was the item he has indicated to the House.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, is it in order to move to re-consider a portion of a bill?

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman's motion is to reconsider the bill.

Mr. OLCOTT. I move to reconsider the entire bill.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I move to lay that motion on the table.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the motion of the gentleman from Kansas to lay the motion of the gentleman from New York [Mr. Olcott] on the table.

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the noes" seemed to have it.

Mr. SIMS. Division, Mr. Speaker.

Mr. CAMPBELL. I call for a division.

The House proceeded to divide.

During the division,
Mr. MACON. Mr. Speaker, Members of the House do not understand the proposition. I ask unanimous consent that it again be stated.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is upon the motion of the gentleman from New York, to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed, and the gentleman from Kansas moves to lay that motion on the table. The question is, now, Shall that motion lie on the table, upon which the House is now dividing.

The House divided; and there were-ayes 50, noes 59.

So the motion was rejected. Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, I call for tellers.

Tellers were ordered.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The gentleman from Kansas [Mr. CAMPBELL] and the gentleman from New York [Mr. OL-COTT] will take their places as tellers.

The House divided: and the tellers reported-aves 53, noes 71. So the House refused to lay the motion to reconsider on the

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question recurs on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill was passed.

The question was taken, and the Speaker pro tempore announced that the ayes appeared to have it.

Mr. CAMPBELL. Division!

The House divided; and there were-ayes 57, noes 40.

So the motion to reconsider was agreed to.

Mr. OLCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I offer the following amendment to this bill, which I will ask the Clerk to read.

The Clerk read as follows:

Line 23, page 4, strike out the word "fifty" and insert in lieu thereof the words "one hundred."

Mr. OLCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I need hardly say the amendment to this bill increases the pension to the widow of Admiral Coghlan from $50 to $100 per month. I do this on account of the meritorious services that were performed by the late rearadmiral in the service of his Government from the time when he entered the Naval Academy until the time when he was retired as a rear-admiral. It is unnecessary to dilate to any considerable extent in regard to his services. I believe that the most violent opponent of this amendment would admit that his services were of great advantage to this Government. I will merely mention the fact that all of us know, that he was the man who fired the first shot at Manila; and that was only one of the constant instances throughout all his life of being ready and prepared to meet every emergency.

The widow of Admiral Coghlan is entirely without means. She was married to him in 1868, and consequently there is no suggestion, as is sometimes made in regard to widows' pensions, of the marriage having occurred after the meritorious services had been rendered. She is now without means and has to live with friends, because she can not afford to live anywhere else. If she receives only $50 it will be insufficient for her support. I think that this country, without any particular regard to a range of precedents, can say this admiral's services were such as would justify unusual action being taken on behalf of Mrs.

She is a woman, I think, of 60 years. Coghlan.

When it comes to the question of precedents, I would like to read a letter I have received from the Commissioner of Pensions referring to widows who are receiving more than $50, which amount has been arbitrarily declared by the Committees on Pensions shall be the limit given to widows. The letter is as follows:

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR,
BUREAU OF PENSIONS,
Washington, January 19, 1909.

BUREAU OF PENSIONS, Washington, January 19, 1909.

Hon. J. Van Veehten Olcott, House of Representatives.

My Dear Mr. Olcott: I have just received your letter of 18th instant, herewith returned, and I regret to say that I am unable to give you at this time all the information you have asked for, because befor I could furnish a complete list of all the widows who are pensioned by special acts at rates in excess of $50 per month I would have to correspond with the different pension agents and obtain from them a report of such pensioners on their rolls.

I will state, however, that the records show the following persons to be in receipt of pensions in excess of $50 per month, which have been granted by special acts of Congress:

The widow of ex-President Garfield, pensioned at $5,000 per annum; the widow of General Sheridan, at $2,500 per annum; the widow of General Logan, at $2,000 per annum; the widow of General Islar, at $2,000 per annum; and the widow of Walter Reed, late major and surgeon, United States Army, at $1,500 per annum.

I will state further that at the close of the last fiscal year, June 30, 1908, there were 12 widows in receipt of pensions of $100 per month by special acts and 8 in receipt of pensions at $75 per month, but to identify these cases it would be necessary for me to call upon the different pension agents, which would require considerable time.

It is believed, however, that the information given above will be sufficient to serve your purpose.

Very respectfully,

V. WARNER, Commissioner.

Mr. COX of Indiana. Will the gentleman state what the age of Mrs. Coghlan is?

Mr. OLCOTT. Sixty, I think. Mr. CAMPBELL. Fifty-six.

Mr. OLCOTT. Well, I will accept the gentleman's statement, if that appears in the papers. I understand that these rules of the Pensions Committees relative to these increases not to exceed $50 in any case have been in existence for ten years.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The time of the gentleman has expired.

Mr. OLCOTT. I would like to have five minutes more.

There was no objection.

Mr. OLCOTT. But I wish to lay especial stress and emphasis upon the fact that the pension so properly granted to the widow of Surgeon Reed was passed in 1903. So I think that alone gives sufficient precedent for the passage of the amendment that I have offered to this bill. I think that the facts are so before this House relative to the services of the admiral, and I know that the affidavits filed before the committee prove so conclusively that Mrs. Coghlan was without means that I can safely ask this House of Representatives to do an act of justice and to award to Mrs. Coghlan, the widow of Rear-Admiral Coghlan, the sum of $100 per month to be paid to her as a pension.

Mr. HULL of Iowa. Mr. Speaker, it may be an ungracious thing to oppose the increase of a pension to anyone, especially a widow, where a Member of the House may desire to see it increased; but I want to call attention to the fact that in this case this gallant officer of the navy, as he was, was educated by the Government, supported by the Government, lived on the pay roll of the Government until after he had passed the age of retirement, so that his service did not shorten his life and did did not interfere with the education of his family.

This bill, without the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York, gives $50 a month to his widow, and I want to call the attention of this committee to the fact that both the Committee on Invalid Pensions and the Committee on Pensions have passed a rule not to give in excess of $30 a month to old soldiers who served in active warfare, even though the service in the field was more than three years. It seems to me that if the committee gives to the widows of distinguished officers $50 a month, it is a very large recognition of the distinction of having married a general officer of the army or an admiral of the navv.

The gentleman refers to the Reed case as one of $1,500 a year. That is not a pension; it was not carried by the Pension Committee, but was reported from the Military Committee, and was for the reason that this man, in the interest of science, in the interest of humanity, went out of his own line of duty and sacrificed his life in order to find some way by which the ravages of yellow fever might be stopped. He left a widow and small children to be educated, so the case is not on all fours with this.

Now, the general law provides for pensions to widows of general officers at $30 a month. It gives the same pensions to widows of admirals of the navy; and it does seem to me that if we are coming in here to increase pensions to $100 a month for any of these widows, we ought to change the general law so that every widow of an admiral and every widow of a general shall receive $100 a month. [Applause.] It is not a fair proposition to bring in here a bill for one when there are many others on the pension rolls equally worthy, equally necessitous, who are content with their $30 a month.

If this bill passes, every one of them should bring in a bill asking for $100 a month. And I want to ask you how you can justify this enormous increase in a pension where there is nothing to take it out of the ordinary run? I am willing to go as far as the committee has gone, but no further. If the man had lost his life in battle, if he had left small children, there might be a reason why this great Government should step in and see that those children are educated. That is not true in this case or in the cases of others, widows of admirals and generals.

It is true that just after the civil war the Congress of the United States was exceedingly liberal in granting pensions to widows of distinguished officers, both of the army and of the navy. That is no precedent for our action now, practically forty-five years after the close of the war; and it seems to me that this bill has received all the consideration it is entitled to at the hands of the Committee on Pensions when they report an increase of $20 a month beyond what is allowed to the other widows of general officers and other widows of admirals of the navy. So far as widows of the Presidents are concerned, the law applies to all.

I hope this House will not to-day set the precedent and certify it to the country that the widow of a man who served even forty years, whose services were good—there is no question about that—but who suffered nothing as a result of the service in his health or in the care of his family, shall be entitled to eight and one-half times as much as the largest pension given to widows of soldiers of this country who preserved the Union, or three and one-third times as much as is allowed to the most deserving of the old Union soldiers who served three years carrying a gun and did as much to preserve the unity of the States and the sacredness of the flag as any man who wore the stars, so far as their ability and opportunity went. [Applause.] hope the amendment will not prevail.

Mr. LOUDENSLAGER. Mr. Speaker, under no circumstances would this be a pleasant task. It is doubly unpleasant in this case, because of my acquaintance with the claimant and some social relationship with the family. I had hoped that the gentleman from New York [Mr. Olcott] would not press this matter.

I had hoped that I would be relieved from making public my views in regard to matters of this kind. I have served for very nearly sixteen years on that committee. I have endeavored to give it a fealty that should merit the appreciation of the House, which I endeavored to serve. During the first two years of my membership on that committee there were no rules, no continuity of action upon the part of either the committee or the House. A sudden whim, a sudden impassioned speech carried into law beneficial acts of $75 for the widow of not men of extraordinary worth, while it brought down to $25 the widows of some of the most meritorious men in the service of our Since that time we have endeavored to deal with all claimants on the basis of equity and justice, not because they came from one section or had some favorite Member of the House as an advocate, but we endeavored to deal with all on the basis of equity and justice.

As has been remarked by the gentleman from Iowa [Mr. HULL], there is not a single, solitary, special, or extraordinary feature in this case. On the pension rolls to-day is the widow of a man who, in the breaking out of the civil war, was a cadet. He asked for leave of absence without pay that he might join the volunteer infantry force of this country. He raised a company, and step by step, by gallant and meritorious service, rose to the position of major-general of volunteers. At the close of the war he went back to the position as a cadet, and then rose, step by step, to be a rear-admiral. And yet Congress would only increase the widow's pension $5 a month, from $35, although the testimony shows that she had only her pension to live on. This case has no comparison with that.

This claimant, on a sworn affidavit filed with the committee, says that she has property to the value of $6,700, almost up to the limit which has been the rule of the committee to prevent any action to increase pensions at all. I believe, in view of the past actions of Congress in the hundreds and thousands of cases of the widows of the officers of the civil war and of the Regular Army and of the Spanish-American war who are to-day only drawing $50, that for the House to pass this act would be an act of almost criminal injustice against those poor widows whose cases we have acted upon before.

I sincerely hope that this House and its membership will recognize the line of equity and justice that has been followed by the two committees and by Congress heretofore. [Applause.]

Mr. SIMS. Mr. Speaker, I want to add my testimony to that of the gentleman who has just taken his seat. I have had the honor to serve on the committee from which this bill has been I have an experience that no one but a committeeman can have, and I want to say that if the Members of this House had seen the widows in their weeds and with their tears as often as the members of the committee have, they would know that they have got to hold down their own impulses of generosity all the time, and if they err at all, it is on the side of

Now, I have often seen cases in the early days of my service, after the committee had heard all of the evidence and acted liberally in bringing in a bill-where some favorite Member of the House would get up with a lot of letters and statements that had never been submitted to the committee and make an impassioned speech, and the House would increase the pension over that reported by the committee. That was an injustice to the committee and an injustice to those who had submitted to the action of the committee.

The committee has the best opportunity to investigate and know the facts, as we can not have any kind of uniformity if | tion for forty-eight years?

we undertake to increase pensions over the reports of the committee. The committee is generous and just to a fault. If we are going to come in here and double the report of the committee, double the allowances made by it, there is no telling where we will go. When a member of that committee I fought the pension of the mother of Ensign Bagley, of North Carolina, for an excessive amount. As a member of that committee I stood with it against the increase of the pension of the daughter of President Tyler, then about 80 years of age. They were both from the South. If we listened to every impassioned request of this kind that appealed to our feelings, we would be doing nothing else.

At one time there seemed to be a factious opposition to these bills by a gentleman from South Carolina, and the House made a new rule. All these bills used to be considered Friday nights, and then by a new rule they were considered on two Fridays out of each month and debate sought to be limited. It was pledged on this side—Mr. Richardson of Tennessee being the Democratic leader—that no mere factious opposition should be made to pension bills if the limit of debate was not made a part of the rule. We have kept our pledge, and now bills come in here in omnibus form, just as it is in this case, and therefore it is more important to stand by the committee as to the amount, at least when it comes to increases, than it ever was before; for, in order to get a bill through, we vote for all bills. Before this course was adopted each bill stood on its merits and an amendment could be offered. Now they are grouped in an omnibus bill, and the passing of them is a mere formality, as far as the House is concerned, and the committee is the only protection the country has. Are we going to overturn the findings of the committee, who have given $20 more to this claimant than the widows of the general officers receive? Are we going to do that and put it up to $100 upon the mere presentaion, eloquently and strongly made, of the gentleman from New

If we are going to do that we had better go back to the old way of considering each bill-one at a time-when there will be an opportunity to discuss this kind of an amendment when it is offered. I hope this House will stand by this committee. ing my entire service I want to say that the chairman of that committee has been just to all parties and to all sections and knew neither section nor politics as far as I could tell. Are we now going to break down the rule of the committee and let each pension day be used to offer amendments to increase sundry bills to an extent limited only by the feelings of the House that may be wrought up by the eloquent speech of an influential and able Member? I hope the House will stand by the committee in this case. My colleague from New York is a friend of mine, and I would like to help him, but this would not be helping him. It is doing an injustice to a large class of people, and if this is passed, bills for increases will trouble this House world without end.

[Cries of "Vote!" "Vote!"]

Mr. CAMPBELL. Mr. Speaker, a vote is asked for. I simply want to say this: I yield to no one in appreciation of the services of Rear-Admiral Coghlan, but there is nothing exceptional or unusual in his service or in the case of his widow. We have erred, I think, in our generosity by proposing to increase the pension she now draws from $30 to $50 a month. If this pension is still further increased, I serve notice on this House that as a member of the Pensions Committee, if a Member of the House has an application for a pension for the widow of a private soldier for $25 or $30 or $50 a month, I shall endeavor to get a favorable report on that bill. [Applause and laughter.1

These exceptionally high rates of pension to the widows of officers who have had distinguished service in the army and navy have already gone altogether too far. We are asked here to establish another precedent by following those already made. Every one of these bills that have been passed has been recited here this morning as a precedent for passing this.

Mr. OLLIE M. JAMES. Does not the gentleman think that the statement which he has made that he will endeavor to get pensions for $25 and $30 or $50 a month for all widows hereafter will tend to encourage the passage of this amendment? [Laughter.]

Mr. CAMPBELL. No; because I am sure the Members of the House know that the country can not now go to that rate of pensions for the widows of soldiers.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. CAMPBELL. I yield. Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. How many other cases are now in existence where a man has served in the navy with distinc-

Mr. CAMPBELL. But he was a retired naval officer, and did not die of injuries incurred in the service or in the line of duty, and he left his wife about $7,000 worth of property, and she got a $30 pension under the general law soon after his death.

Mr. GAINES of Tennessee. How old was Admiral Coghlan

when he died?

Mr. CAMPBELL. I am not sure about that, but I am told that he was 66.

Mr. OLCOTT. Sixty-five.

Mr. CAMPBELL. But he was educated at the expense of the Government. He has been on the government pay roll since 1860, for almost half a century; lived well in the best circles of society, and saw but little active service. The first gun that was fired in the harbor of Manila was fired from his battle ship, but not by him, as has been claimed, but by some private soldier whose widow will get about $12 a month if he should die in line of duty or of injuries incurred in the service. Mr. Speaker, I call for a vote, and I hope the amendment will be voted down.

Mr. OLCOTT. Mr. Speaker, before a vote is taken, I would like to put in the RECORD a statement which is made by the

Pension Committee itself:

Admiral Coghlan was born in Frankfort, Ky., December 9, 1844; he was appointed acting midshipman September 27, 1860, and thereafter rendered continuous and exceptionally distinguished service, being promoted through the successive grades to that of rear-admiral, attaining that rank April 11, 1902.

I merely want to see that that one statement goes into the RECORD to show that this is an exceptional case, and can not be guided by the arbitrary rules of the Committee on Pensions.

Mr. COCKRAN. Mr. Speaker, I would like to ask the gentleman a question. Owing to the confusion in the Hall, I could not hear what he said. Do I understand the gentleman to say that this officer had served in both wars, the civil war and the war with Spain?

Mr. OLCOTT. Oh, certainly.

Mr CAMPBELL. He was a cadet at Annapolis during the war of the sixties.

Mr. OLCOTT. I will read from the records of the Navy Department:

On May 28, 1863, he was promoted to acting ensign; July 20, 1863, he was sent to the U. S. S. Sacramento and served on that ship until August 17, 1865—

Mr. COCKRAN. He actually served in two wars? Mr. OLCOTT. Yes. Mr. COCKRAN. Each time before the guns of ti Each time before the guns of the enemy?

Mr. OLCOTT. Yes.

Mr. CAMPBELL. He served as a cadet in the Naval Academy during the fighting that saved the country.

Mr. COCKRAN rose. [Cries of "Vote!" "Vote!"]

Mr. COCKRAN. Oh, let us have the facts in the case. There seems to be some conflict about them.

Mr. OLCOTT. I will read from the record from the Navy Department-

Mr. COCKRAN. Has the gentleman from New York heard the correction of his statement made by the gentleman from Kansas [Mr. Campbell]?

Mr. OLCOTT. I did not hear. Mr. COCKRAN. What I wa clearly before the House. I un What I want is to get both statements House. I understand the gentleman from New York to have stated that this officer, Admiral Coghlan, served in two wars, serving each time actually before the guns of the enemy, and I understand the gentleman from Kansas [Mr. Campbell] to correct that statement and to say that his whole service during the civil war was inside the limits of the Naval Academy.

Now, I would like to have the facts made clear to this body, because if that officer served in two wars, risking his life in both, his case is a little different from one who has served in but one war.

Mr. OLCOTT. I would say, in answer to my colleague from New York, that Admiral Coghlan was appointed on September ship. I would like to know if that was not a training ship.

Mr. OLCOTT. It was a ship. [Cries of "Vote!" "Vote!"]
I want to say to the gentleman from Iowa that the Sacramento was a fighting ship in the service, I am credibly informed by a gentleman, who is a graduate of the Naval Academy.

Mr. CAMPBELL. It was a training ship.

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The question is on the amendment offered by the gentleman from New York.

The question was taken, and the Chair announced that the

Mr. OLCOTT. Mr. Speaker, I demand a division.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

SUNDAY, January 24, 1909.

The House met at 12 o'clock m. and was called to order by the Speaker pro tempore, Mr. CALDER.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. Henry N. Couden, D. D., as follows

Oh, Thou Infinite and Eternal Spirit, Father of all Souls, above all, through all, and in us all, we lift up our hearts in prayer and praise to Thee, that God which ever lives and loves, one God, one law, one element, and one far-off divine event to which the whole creation moves. We thank Thee for those indissoluble ties which bind us to Thee and which time nor space can sever.

"We know not what the future hath of marvel or surprise, Assured alone that life and death His mercy underlies."

We are here assembled to-day in memory of a modest, unassuming gentleman who with patriotic zeal and fervor served his State and Nation upon the floor of this House unostentatiously and without conspicuousness, but who did his whole duty and has answered the last summons. "He that hath been faithful over a few things, I will make him ruler over many things." Grant that we may gather up all that is pure and noble and strong and worthy in him and strive to assimilate them and make them ours, that when the summons comes we may move forward worthy of the "well done, good and faithful servant."

Let Thine everlasting arms, O God, be about those who were near and dear to him in the bonds of love and kinship. Help them to look forward, not back, to aspire, not repine, to hope, and not despair, that though he may not come to them, they will surely go to him and live with him in that realm where love reigns supreme forever, and we shall ascribe all praise to Thee in Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

EULOGIES ON HON, CHARLES T. DUNWELL,

The SPEAKER pro tempore. The Clerk will read the order of business for the day.

The Clerk read as follows:

On motion of Mr. FOELKER, by unanimous consent, ordered, that there be a session of the House at 12 o'clock m. on Sunday, January 24, 1909, for the delivery of eulogies on the life, character, and public services of the Hon. Charles T. Dunwell, late a Member of the House from New York.
